

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system, method, and apparatus of remotely monitoring a status of a machine monitors machine status based on light emitted by a machine status indicator light on the machine. The light is detected by a photosensor and converted into signals for transmission to a remote receiver, network server, or other monitoring device.